AZ Privilege Status

When viewing a Driver Record or when providing a Credential Service, one of the first things you will see is the AZ Privilege Status, which is a quick visual indicator for the following:

- Credentials a customer has (commercial, non commercial, identification)
- Credentials a customer is not legally excluded from obtaining
- Credentials a customer may obtain after satisfying some sort of compliance
- Credentials a customer is not eligible to obtain due to withdrawal or death

The AZ Privilege Status feature is designed to give you an immediate quick reference, so you can readily set proper expectations with your customer. If you see a caution or a stop icon, you know the customer may not be able to get the credential they are seeking before you begin the service.

In addition to Privilege Status, this section provides additional helpful information:

1. State of Record Pointer - indicates whether or not Arizona is the state of record for each of the pointer types. Yes indicates Arizona is the state of record, No indicates Arizona is not the state of record.
 2. AZ Privilege Status - a quick visual indicator of what credentials the customer has and what they are or aren't eligible to obtain. See details below.
 3. Earliest Eligibility Date - for a customer with a withdrawal that impacts their credential status, but they are eligible to get the privilege back in the future, this indicates the earliest date they may qualify to get their full privileges back.
 4. DL Earliest Restricted Eligibility Date - If the customer has a withdrawal that impacts their credential status, but they may be eligible to obtain a restricted credential in the future, this indicates the earliest date they may qualify. If "Not Eligible" is present it means it doesn't apply or is not an option for this customer.
 5. Required Hard Time - for withdrawals that require a waiting period before the customer is eligible to reapply for a restricted credential, this reflects the duration of the waiting period (e.g., for the first Admin Per Se offense and the customer chooses not to apply for a SIIRD, the customer serves 30 days of hard time before they are eligible for 60 days of restricted driving). If "Not Eligible" is present it means it doesn't apply or is not an option for this customer.
