CDL Entry Level Driver Training

The new Entry-Level Driver Training (ELDT) regulations require that all entry-level drivers of commercial motor vehicles (CMVs) receive training from a provider listed on FMCSA's Training Provider Registry before administering the applicable CDL skills test or the hazardous materials endorsement knowledge test.

CSRs are not required to scan the ELDT or CSTIMS results into MAX as part of the service.

CDL Applicants Required to have ELDT

Beginning February 7, 2022, the following are required to complete ELDT:

- Obtain a Class A or B CDL for the first time
- Upgrade an existing Class B CDL to a Class A CDL
- Obtain a school bus, passenger, or hazardous materials endorsement for the first time

If a CDL credential has ever had a Hazmat endorsement and the CDL is being renewed or is expired, ELDT is not required.

View the ELDT Applicability Factsheet for more information on scenarios and links to the registry. View the ELDT Applicability Flowchart for more information on applicants that are required to have ELDT for first time CDLs and endorsements, also for those that are exempt from ELDT. View the FMCSA website for more information on ELDT.

Required ELDT

The type of training required depends on the type of license or endorsement for which the driver is applying:

License or Endorsement	ELDT Verification Occurs Before:	Theory Training Required?	Behind-the-Wheel Training Required?
Class A CDL (new or upgrade)	CDL skills test	Yes	Yes - Range and Public Road
Class B CDL	CDL skills test	Yes	Yes - Range and Public Road
Passenger endorsement	P skills test	Yes	Yes - Range and Public Road
School bus endorsement	S skills test	Yes	Yes - Range and Public Road
Hazardous materials endorsement	H knowledge test	Yes	No

Steps to Obtain a CDL or Endorsement for Entry-Level Drivers

Below are the steps that CDL applicants subject to ELDT typically go through to obtain a CDL or endorsement.

Application Process

Class A, B, CDLs and P. S Endorsements

Step 1	CDL Medical Examination Documentation	INTERstate - has medical examination documentation from a FMCSA-qualified medical professional electronically submitted. INTRAsate - has paper medical examination documentation to provide. See Commercial Medical Requirements topic for additional information.
Step 2	Knowledge Test	Driver passes knowledge test at MVD
Step 3	CLP	MVD issues CLP Note: Federal regulations do not require CDL applicant to complete entry-level driver theory training before applying for their CLP.
Step 4	ELDT	CLP holder completes ELDT courses
Step 5	Certify	Training provider submits the training certification record to the Training Provider Registry
Step 6	Verify	MVD verifies completion of required training using CSTIMS
Step 7	Skills/Road Test	CLP holder passes skills and road test
Step 8	CDL/Endorsement	MVD issues CDL or endorsement

Application Process
H Endorsement
Step 1	HME Security Threat Assessment (STA)	Driver Transportation Security Administration (TSA) HME Security Threat Assessment is approved, background check completed Note: Driver is not required to complete this prior to taking ELDT
Step 2	ELDT	Driver completes the H endorsement training
Step 3	Certify	Training provider submits the training certification record to the Training Provider Registry
Step 4	Verify	MVD verifies completion of required training using CSTIMS
Step 5	Test	Driver passes the H knowledge test
Step 6	Endorsement	MVD issues H endorsement on CDL credential *Provided the STA is satisfied in MAX
