Temporary Registration Plate (TRP)

A 45-Day Temporary Registration Plate (TRP) is a paper plate that is issued when the customer has purchased a vehicle from an Arizona Licensed Dealer.

The dealership issues the TRP in order for the vehicle to be driven legally while the paperwork is processed. The dealership may only issue one TRP per vehicle.

Once the vehicle is sold to a bona fide purchaser, the dealer has 30 days in which to submit the transaction to the Division before a late title transfer penalty fee will be assessed.

The TRP will display in the Permits section on the Vehicle Information page, along with who the permit was issued to. No FLP will display or which dealership issued the permit.

* A Temporary Registration Permit (TRP) OR Sales Contract/Invoice is NOT acceptable to issue an Arizona Registration Only (ARO)/ Special Interstate Registration (SPI).

If there is a valid TRP in place, a customer cannot obtain an ARO. The customer must wait until the vehicle is fully registered in the state where the TRP was issued before registering the vehicle in Arizona.

Converting a TRP to a Title and Registration Record

The TRP record will be converted into a title and registration record when the proper paperwork has been submitted.

A message, as shown below, will display when the permit is recognized, noting that the permit will be converted into a T&R record. View the Title and Registration service for more information on converting the record to a full T&R record.

When the customer completes a Title and Registration service, the data from the permit(s) will be used to convert to a title and registration record. MAX will display an alert to notify the CSR of the permit conversion.

Alerts

Error - Permit has been issued for the selected vehicle and customer. Data from the permit(s) will be used to convert to a Title and Registration.

When the vehicle is registered for full registration period, fees are assessed based on the TRP issue date.

Expired TRP

If the TRP was voided or has expired before the title and registration transaction is completed, an online 30-Day General Use Permit may be issued by the dealership.

Confirming Registration Credit from another Plate

The plate credit will display in the Permit section of the Vehicle Information page under TRP Credit Description.
