Electronic Lien and Title (ELT)

Electronic lien and title, also known as ELT, is a program offered by various U.S. states allowing for the electronic exchange of lien and title information with lienholders in lieu of a paper certificate of title. The ELT program is intended to improve data accuracy, data security, and faster lien releases and results in lower paper, printing, and mailing costs.

Arizona requires lenders to participate in the ELT program. Therefore all organization lienholders must have an ELT number used to identify the lender. The lienholder must select their own and register with an Authorized ELT Service Provider. Once registered, any liens from the lienholder will be filed and released electronically. View the Set up ELT Provider in MAX section for more information on where to direct the customer and/or lienholder.

Trusts, Estates, and Government entities are not required to be set up as an ELT.

Mobile home lienholders are not required to be ELT.

Upon approval, any changes to the address must be completed by the AADA ELT Help Desk.

ELT States

To verify what which state is part of the ELT (title holding) program:

- View the World Data Corp \(Polk Book\) Quick Reference Guide
- Find the column 'Title Held by Lienholder'
 - YES = Title holding state
 - NO = Not a title holding state

Out-of-State Titles

When a customer presents an out-of-state title with an out-of-state lienholder and the lienholder is not registered with an ELT Service Provider, and the lienholder is:

- A large lender who conducts business in Arizona, a T&R permit may be issued and an Additional Requirements form provided, indicating the lender must contact an ELT Service

Provider to obtain an electronic lienholder customer number

- A small out-of-state lender who does not do business in Arizona, an Arizona Registration Only (ARO) can be processed. The customer will retain the out-of-state title in their possession until the lien has been satisfied and the title can be transferred to Arizona
