Homemade Trailers

A homemade trailer has been configured, constructed together, and 'made at home' by private individuals. They are made using various materials, and are not shop-made or mass-produced by a manufacturer.

Title and Registration Requirements

Homemade trailers used for recreational or business purposes and moved on public highways must be titled and registered.

- Every homemade trailer MUST be inspected. The year of the inspection will become the year of the trailer
- The customer declares the weight and the intended usage, not the CSR
- The factory list price of the trailer is declared by the customer and noted on the inspection form in the Remarks area
 - Ownership documents are required when the declared value, as stated by the owner, is $1,000 or more
 - Ownership documents do not have to equal the declared value
 - If the declared value is less than $1,000, no ownership documents or receipts are required
- An Arizona Serial Number (AZ SNO) is assigned and becomes the Vehicle Identification Number (VIN)

The $5.00 fee* will need to be collected after the service is completed using the Miscellaneous Purchase service and selecting State Assigned VIN Fee.

*ONLY for homemade vehicles/trailers, this does not include VINs with less than 17 characters using the State Assigned VIN Type.

Inspections

The type of inspection depends on how the trailer was constructed, and if the trailer has an Arizona Serial Number (AZ SNO), VIN manufacturer's serial or other identifying numbers assigned and intact.

View the Assign State VIN topic for more information on the AZ SNO.

View the Homemade Vehicle Permit service for more information on how to process a permit for a vehicle or trailer that does not have an assigned VIN.

■ Level I inspection:

- Homemade trailers titled for the first time for the purpose of assigning an AZ SNO

■ Level II or III inspection:

- When a frame or bed from a pickup truck was used to make the homemade trailer
- When any type of manufactured vehicle or essential part of a manufactured vehicle was used to make the homemade trailer
- When the trailer's AZ SNO, VIN, manufacturer's serial or other identifying numbers has been altered, removed, obliterated, defaced, or omitted

If the Level II or III inspector determines a Level I inspection is sufficient for the trailer in question, the Level II or III inspector will complete a no-fee Level I inspection.

When a vehicle or trailer is commercially built and the VIN plate is lost, a duplicate VIN can sometimes be issued by ADOT Enforcement Compliance Division (ECD). Enforcement will determine if a duplicate VIN or AZ Number may be assigned.

Arizona Serial Number (AZ SNO or AZ Number)

An Arizona Serial Number (AZ SNO), or AZ Number, is issued to homemade trailers (and other specially constructed or reconstructed vehicles) when there is no VIN, or when the assigned AZ Number, manufacturer's serial number or other identifying numbers have been altered, removed, obliterated, defaced, or omitted.

View the Assign State VIN topic for more information.
